NORWAY, SWEDEN ARE WARNED BY RUSSIA

PLOT TO SMASH U.S. GOVERNMENT BROKEN BY FBI

18 Arrested As Nucleus Of Nation-Wide Conspiracy

PLANNED DEATHS OF CONGRESSMEN

Store of "Revolutionary"
Arms Is Discovered
In New York

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—A plot to smash the government of the United States and replace it with a dictatorship through bombings and assassination was charged today against 18 New York members of a "Christian Front."

J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, implied, in announcing the disruption of the alleged plot, that the 18 now under arrest were merely the nucleus of a nation-wide conspiracy.

FBI agents were searching in many localities for caches of arms such as the "small arsenal" they found in New York City in the course of a six-month investigation of the alleged conspirators.

Face Arraignment

The 18 scheduled for arraignment today in Brooklyn federal court were charged specifically with seditionary conspiracy to create a revolution and overthrow the government of the United States.

The penalty could be six years in prison and a $5,000 fine for each.

Among their tentative aims, Hoover said, was the assassination of 12 congressmen—identities not disclosed—as examples to all those who voted for repeal of the arms embargo.

The day for striking against the government, Hoover said, was to be soon after a final drill in bombing and firing which had been set for Jan. 20—next Saturday.

While the store of "revolutionary" arms here was comparatively small, Hoover indicated many more guns and bombs might be found elsewhere.

Planned Arms Theft

He said elaborate plans had been made for the theft of armament for revolutionary use from national guard arsenals. In fact, six of those under arrest were listed as members of the New York National guard, one as a member of the naval reserve and another as belonging to the marine reserve.

One was described as a member of the German-American bund, whose fuhrer, Fritz Kuhn, is in Sing Sing prison for stealing bund funds.

"The group depended," Hoover said, "upon terrorism and ultimate demoralization of communities to attain their objective. First of all, they aimed at terrorization of Jews
—all Jews. At the same time, according to their plans, they were to seize communications, transportation systems, customs and postoffices."

He said the leaders of the alleged conspiracy were John F. Cassidy, Brooklyn head of the "Christian Front," and William Gerald Bishop, leader of a "sports club," known as the "Country Gentlemen," secretly operating behind the front.

SKATING DELAYED AS DAM'S BROKEN

Unidentified Destroyer Digs Out Portion of Earth;
Overflow Pipe Dug Up

Revenge or jealousy motives were blamed by city officials for an act of destruction at the West End skating pond Sunday afternoon.

Mayor Norman Phillips reported this morning that someone between 2 and 3:30 p. m. yesterday went to the trouble of digging a large break in the earthen dam, causing much of the water in the pond to escape. An overflow pipe was even dug up.

Mayor Phillips' aids for the last two weeks have been attempting to flood the pond site to provide winter skating facilities for out-of-doors fans in the city.

Today, Service Director Charles T. Kennedy had workmen repairing the damage, preparatory to flooding the pond again.

The mayor said everything was all right at the pond at 2 p. m. yesterday when Ed Sheen, president of the park commission, visited the place. H. A. Peters, service department worker, discovered the break at 3:30.

Get Fingerprints In Rural Robbery

state highway patrolmen on Carl Hannay's service station on the New Garden rd., just south of Salem, Saturday morning following a robbery at the place sometime Friday night or early Saturday morning.

grease, a shotgun and a revolver.
Hannay placed the loss at $75.
A front door was forced open

OHIO IS SWEEPED BY NEAR GALES; WIND HITS CITY

Store Signs Are Damaged;
Limbs Are Broken
From Trees

ALABAMA TORNADO TAKES SIX LIVES

Drop In Temperature Tonight Seen by Weather Forecasters

Snow storms moved eastward from the middlewest today, threatening to bring ice as an aftermath to gale-blown rain that slashed the east yesterday.

The Salem area felt the effects of the near gale early Sunday morning and again Sunday night, following a comparatively warm, spring-like Saturday.

Several store signs were damaged,
police reported, a flag pole at St.
Paul's school was blown down, and limbs were blown off trees in various sections of the city.

Snow began to fall last night and this morning driving within the city was treacherous.

Wires Are Down

Communications lines were wrecked by a 50-mile-an-hour wind in many sections of Ohio. Shipping along the seaboard was disrupted; the rain turned into ice in various areas, but brought some relief to New York City's water supply which had been fast dwindling under drought conditions.

Six persons were killed and a number injured when tornadoes struck 15 miles east and 80 miles southwest of Montgomery, Ala., yesterday. Twenty-five or more houses were demolished.

New York and New England felt the full force of the wind and rain that left widespread property damage.

The weather played nearly all of its tricks in Ohio over the weekend, but it had one more stunt poised for tonight—a cold wave.

Colder Wave

Meteorologist R. C. Mize of Cleveland said it would be 10 degrees colder generally tonight with temperatures ranging about 20, or below over most of the state, accompanied by snow flurries.

The weather tricks ran the gamut of spring-like thunder, rain, sunshine, high wind, heavy clouds and snow. With them came property damage in northern Ohio, small floods in eastern Ohio and fires costing four lives and wiping out most of the village of New Castle, Ohio.

Warm breezes from the south brought heavy thunder showers to some parts of northern Ohio. In a few hours this gave way to sales reaching 52 miles an hour at Toledo, 47 at Cleveland, 43 at Columbus and 40 at Cincinnati.

Temperatures dropped from the 50's in Ohio to 22 at Cincinnati, 24 at Columbus and 27 at Toledo and Cleveland this morning.

Ice piled 35 to 40 feet high in places along the Lake Erie shore near the Ohio-Michigan border.
Wires snapped and trees were broken in northwestern Ohio also.
Streets flooded by melting snow closed Route 36 in Washington county and Route 146 in Guernsey county. The highway department reported all other highways in good condition.

On Friday night the granges will join again to present a comedy production entitled "Fixing Aunt Fanny." Funds derived from this play will be used to defray institute expenses. The Salem Farmers supporting farm gatherings in Ohio.

dent to police. Archibald was taken in an ambulance to City hospital where he was treated.

Fire Hits Japanese City; Many Are Dead

TOKYO, Jan. 15.—Fire was believed today to have killed 300, destroyed 4,000 homes and the business district of Shizuoka, city of 200,000 southwest of Tokyo.

Insurance companies estimated losses at $2,342,000 with the fire still out of control tonight.

A regiment of troops and two relief trains were rushed to the city.

Plan New Building East Palestine

EAST PALESTINE, Jan. 15.—
Bids will be received until noon
Jan. 29 for construction of a new structure destroyed by fire in December.

Danger Is Cited By Red Officials; Hit Aid To Finns

MOSCOW, Jan. 15.—Soviet Russia warned today of "danger" in her relations with Norway "and especially Sweden," publishing both her protests to them charging violations of neutrality and their not "entirely satisfactory" answers.

In both cases, the Russian protests dealt with anti-Soviet attacks in the press and in quarters close to the governments of the two countries and with men and material going from them to the aid of Finland.

Similarly worded replies from Norway and Sweden disputed the Russian assertions and expressed hope for continued good relations with the Soviet union.

Tass, official Soviet news agency, published summaries of the Russian representations in Oslo and Stockholm and the answers of the two Scandinavian nations, concluding:

"The replies given by the government of Norway, and especially Sweden, cannot be regarded as entirely satisfactory."

"The governments of Norway and Sweden do not deny all the facts proving violation by them of the policy of neutrality. Such a position by the governments of Sweden and Norway conceals danger."

No Resistance
"It testifies to the fact that the governments of Sweden and Norway do not offer proper resistance to the influence of those powers which strive to involve Sweden and Norway in war against the U. S. S. R."

The Soviet minister to Sweden made his emphatic representations to Swedish Foreign Minister Christian Gunther Jan. 5, and a protest in similar language was made the same day in Norway.

Tass said Norway replied the next day, and Sweden answered Jan. 30.
Sweden was warned that aid for Finland and attacks on Russia in the Swedish press "may lead to undesirable complications."

The Russian envoy made three points: 1. That the "impermissible campaign" in the Swedish press could be explained only "if Sweden were in a state of war with the U. S. S. R., or preparing for a state of war." 2. That "thousands of volunteers" for Finland had been enlisted at 47 bureaus under "protection of Swedish authorities." 3.
That Sweden was supplying arms directly to Finland and permitting transit of "war material of every description" for the Finns.

and costs by Mayor George Wilson at Canfield.

rested last night by Patrolman White on a charge of driving while stine, was charged with driving a car without an operator's permit ance, charged by the patrol with

SALEM'S N. Y. A. PROGRAM

Any program that contemplates better traffic control in Salem is commendable, provided no strings are attached and everyone asked to help understand every phase of the program.

One of the drawbacks of the proposed National Youth Administration program is that it will eliminate, instead of augment the school boy patrol system. Once this system was well organized and functioned efficiently in Salem, until the recent administration-denied police assistance to the patrols. Perhaps in one or two cases the boys are too young to accept this responsibility and should have supervision to gain the proper respect of motorists. But that is no reason for abandoning, instead of again building up such a worthy program. It costs the schools and the city nothing as the motor club provides all necessary equipment free.

Extra help to handle traffic on certain occasions in the downtown district could be used to advantage. But use of young men under the NYA can only be temporary, is expensive for those who must contribute, and is only another form of WPA. Nor can it be construed as anything but a political gesture.

When groups and individuals donate funds with which to buy uniforms—if they do—that will not be the end of the expense to them or others. Because of age and other requirements there will be a certain amount of turnover in the personnel, which means some added expense.

Organizations which have been solicited to donate to the fund for uniforms might well do some serious thinking before plunging into a political program which leaves many things to be desired. And the city administration will gain more public favor by sticking to its original announcement—that of wanting to restore the school boy patrol to its former efficient status.

RUNOFF

In all the wide-eyed writing done about snow—the way it falls, piles up, looks and feels—there's a conspiracy of silence about the runoff, certainly one of the best features of snow.

Perhaps this is because on days warm enough to start snow melting the winter atmosphere is too depressing to permit the descriptive urge to bubble over with enthusiasm. Truth is, the runoff has little beauty to commend it.

It is more in the nature of an interesting physical phenomenon—that so much material suddenly should change its form and disperse itself according to a pre-existing plan. This plan is particularly interesting in cities, where human ingenuity has been on the whole more successful than nature's trial and error system for getting rid of excess water with a maximum of speed and a minimum of damage. There's still too much trial and error in the natural system; flood control hasn't much more than made a reasonable start toward matching municipal drainage systems. Perhaps it's because man is too small to understand nature in the mass.

The best he can do is build scale models to prove what would happen if he could compress nature in a laboratory, which is the relative size of a city drainage system when matched with the streams and slopes of a watershed. Lacking a complete grasp of the matter, man must trust to luck and frost, meanwhile watching for news that the runoff he watches today is contributing to a flood somewhere between him and the ocean tomorrow.

THE LAW'S LONG ARM

Oklahoma's prison system will have to make the most of Carlton B. Chilton's escape in 1913, says Gov. Bricker in effect by continuing his predecessor's refusal to give up the Okla. There is nothing to be gained by sending a man who has proved he is not an habitual criminal by a quarter of a century of straight living back to prison. The law's long arm should be controlled by intelligence.

The governor's decision is popular—popular because public opinion finds it much easier to temper justice with mercy than the letter of the law allows. Under the law, of course, Chilton must finish his sentence, unless pardoned, before he can possess a clear record. But the law sometimes is too inflexible for its own good. This is such a case.

As Gov. Bricker suggests, an outright pardon would do more to improve the spirit and morale of penal institutions in this instance than persecution. If the purpose of prisons is to rehabilitate as well as to incarcerate, then the case should be closed.

NOT TOO REASSURING

Pending approval of an amendment by the house, the Jenkins bill directing the social security board to pay Ohio old age pension money withheld since October, 1938, now seems assured of final passage. The senate passed it unanimously on Thursday. The bill is understood to have approval of the social security board.

Reversal of the board's decision is not too reassuring. If the board was right in 1938 when it charged the Davey administration with improper use of the state pension division, it is still right in 1940. If it was wrong, a great many Ohioans who agreed with it in 1938, are going to wonder why both the board and themselves were deceived.

Either way, it seems to add up to political horseplay.

BIG BROTHER ACT

High point of the big red's fight to the Finnish is the reported loudspeaker barrage being laid down on the Mannerheim line—"Give up, or we're going to send for the Germans."

Finnish have deep respect for Germans. They should; they've learned about fighting from them. So if the Germans are willing to be sent for by the reds, it's serious.

But if it's just an idle boast, like finishing the war in a week, more than a month ago, the Russians had better be careful. It's sure death to threaten to bring big brother to the rescue if he doesn't come.

Next thing the Russians know they may be defending Leningrad instead of attacking Helsinki.

FORTY YEARS AGO

R. C. Votaw, who has been employed at the Salem steam laundry on Ellsworth st., has resigned his position to accept one with the Pennsylvania Co. He will be fireman on a through freight running between Pittsburgh and Crestline. He went to Pittsburgh Saturday night and made his first run this morning.

The automobile police patrol wagon built by the city of Akron is said by the technical journals to be the first of its kind in the world. Many requests for information as to its practical success have been received from other cities. The wagon weighs 5,500 pounds, cost $2,200 and has a speed of from six to twenty miles an hour. City officials figure that it will pay for itself in three years by the saving on feed bills and other expense required by the old patrol wagon teams.

Frank L. Smith left this morning for New York City. He will accept a position as bill poster with Buffalo Bill's wild west show.

John Fitzpatrick of Montana is in the city today, the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Stanton Heck of East Main st. He formerly lived in Columbiana and has been in Montana for eight years.

The street commission has men at work cleaning the mud off Main st. today.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Pow of the Ellsworth road are the parents of a son born Saturday night.

(Issue of January 15, 1910)

Mrs. Frank Brainard of New York city will return home Thursday evening after a visit with her mother, Mrs. A. R. Silver, of Lincoln Ave.

Miss Ida Duck of Ohio Ave. returned home Wednesday morning from a visit to Rensselaer, Ind., and Chicago. While in Indiana she was the guest of her sister.

Heavy snow on the wires has caused a lot of trouble for the Bell Telephone Co., with 25 or 30 lines out of commission Friday morning. Broken lines and wires may be found in almost every part of the city.

J. S. Hawn and L. L. Hubbard of this city have begun the preparation of a metal polish known as "Golden Key" polish, which they have placed on the market.

Although Salem is regularly provided with the convenience of sidewalks cleared by a snow plow after a heavy snow, there is a lack, otherwise, which frequently attracts unfavorable comment. There is no provision made for removing the snow which accumulates near the curb on the principal business streets. Snow is swept from the center of the street, or car track, and from the sidewalks, with the result that it is piled high near the curb line awaiting a thaw. In a number of cities nearby the snow thus piled up along the business thoroughfares is loaded on sleds and hauled away. Salem citizens have been advocating like action here.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry K. Yaggs attended a reception given by the Women's club of Mt. Union college Wednesday evening.

F. J. Brudery, telegraph operator on the Pennsylvania railroad, is home visiting his parents.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

(Issue of January 15, 1920)

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cook of East High st. left Wednesday morning for Washington, D. C., enroute to Florida to spend the winter. They will visit at Raleigh, N. C., Jacksonville and Miami and probably other points of interest, including Cuba.

Today was the last day of the 14th decennial census. All enumerators were expected to finish their work by the close of the day. The work in this city has been progressing nicely during the past two weeks and it is believed that all the local enumerators will have their reports ready to turn in to the district supervisors office tomorrow morning.

H. W. Brown will serve as president for the Mullins Relief association during 1920. Fred Davis is vice president and Frank Rollins secretary and treasurer. The officers were elected in a meeting Wednesday evening at the factory. The membership has increased 400 in the last two months, bringing the total to 600.

C. W. Zimmerman left for Detroit Wednesday evening on a business trip.

Robert McCune returned home Wednesday after a few days visit with relatives in Wheeling, W. Va. Miss Hazel Speidel, who has been visiting with her grandfather, W. H. Kelly, in Canton, has returned home. Mr. Kelly and daughter Gertrude left Canton Monday for California, where they will spend the winter.

Charles Cruikshank, who is attending school at Ann Arbor, is confined to the hospital by injuries sustained while skiing.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, January 16

THE afflicted aspects of three of the major planets may make this a difficult day. There are signs of conflicting impulses and decidedly opposite objectives, although there will be much force and enterprise to be brought to bear when plans and programs are finally decided upon. This energy may be fitful, erratic and possibly belligerent, with fluctuations between strife, turbulence and discouragement. However, there are definite auguries for composing discords and hostility by tact or strategy, but in all contracts and correspondence be alert and cautious.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year of confusion and conflict, with great difficulty in making a choice between two or more contradictory urges. The energies are under high pressure and the mind torn between two fields of operation, with alternate aggressiveness and frustration, initiative and depression. In writings of every nature use caution.

A child born on this day may have many conflicts of character and impulses, with much tension and initiative accompanied by gloom, indecision and eccentricity. Proper training might eradicate such idiosyncrasies.

Troubles never arrive singly—they gang up on you, the dirty cowards!

Orange Juice Is Good Bone Builder, Dr. Clendening Says

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Does orange juice have any effect on bone and tooth building?

Recent experiments have proved that fruit juices containing vitamin C activate the deposit of calcium. Formerly it was supposed that vitamin D, which is found in fatty foods, was exclusively responsible for the mechanism of the deposit of calcium in the bones and teeth.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

In this mechanism, in experimental animals growth alone was promoted 10 per cent by the addition of orange juice to the basic diet, and it was shown by volumetric estimation that the amount of calcium ash in the body showed a distinctly higher per cent of calcium in animals fed an abundance of orange juice over those where orange juice was excluded from the diet.

Even when the content of calcium in the food is lower than normal, its utilization is greater when orange juice is fed than when the diet is high in calcium and no orange juice is taken.

These experiments substantiate the clinical observation of Chaney and Blunt that orange juice favors the retention of calcium in growing children.

Winter Complexions

Why do complexions suffer in the winter time?

For two reasons. In the first place, overdoing the daily bath idea. In hot and warm weather the lukewarm bath, even with heavy soaping, removes a great deal of the skin's natural oils. When the skin secretions are more or less dried up, it tends to dry the skin excessively and cause cracking and scaling. The same effect is produced, particularly on the skin of the face, by going out from the exceedingly hot, dry rooms of the American home and office building in winter to the outside cold. This is the second reason.

I believe the inside of the American house is more uncomfortable and unhealthy in winter time than it is in the summer time.

Theater Attractions

An all-technicolor film, "Swanee River," showing tonight and Tuesday at the State theater, tells the dramatic and little-known story of an American composer, Stephen Foster.

Foster, whose birthplace was no farther south than Pittsburgh, Pa., was best known for his songs based on the southern Negro's melodies and those portraying the beauty and charm of the southland.

Don Ameche has the role of the composer, Andrea Leeds plays the southern girl whose faith in his music finally won him fame, and Al Jolson has the part of Edwin Christy, minstrel king who bought "Swanee River" for $15 from the then unknown composer and made himself and the music famous.

The best-loved songs of Foster are heard in the picture, presented by Ameche, Jolson, the Hall Johnson Negro choir, Andrea Leeds and others. Lavish and authentic settings lend beauty and color to the story.

SALEM'S N. Y. A. PROGRAM

Any program that contemplates better traffic control in Salem is commendable, provided no strings are attached and everyone asked to help understand every phase of the program.

One of the drawbacks of the proposed National Youth Administration program is that it will eliminate, instead of augment the school boy patrol system. Once this system was well organized and functioned efficiently in Salem, until the recent administration-denied police assistance to the patrols. Perhaps in one or two cases the boys are too young to accept this responsibility and should have supervision to gain the proper respect of motorists. But that is no reason for abandoning, instead of again building up such a worthy program. It costs the schools and the city nothing as the motor club provides all necessary equipment free.

Extra help to handle traffic on certain occasions in the downtown district could be used to advantage. But use of young men under the NYA can only be temporary, is expensive for those who must contribute, and is only another form of WPA. Nor can it be construed as anything but a political gesture. When groups and individuals donate funds with which to buy uniforms—if they do—that will not be the end of the expense to them or others. Because of age and other requirements there will be a certain amount of turnover in the personnel, which means some added expense.

Organizations which have been solicited to donate to the fund for uniforms might well do some serious thinking before plunging into a political program which leaves many things to be desired. And the city administration will gain more public favor by sticking to its original announcement—that of wanting to restore the school boy patrol to its former efficient status.

RUNOFF

In all the wide-eyed writing done about snow—the way it falls, piles up, looks and feels—there's a conspiracy of silence about the runoff, certainly one of the best features of snow.

Perhaps this is because on days warm enough to start snow melting the winter atmosphere is too depressing to permit the descriptive urge to bubble over with enthusiasm. Truth is, the runoff has little beauty to commend it.

It is more in the nature of an interesting physical phenomenon—that so much material suddenly should change its form and disperse itself according to a pre-existing plan. This plan is particularly interesting in cities, where human ingenuity has been on the whole more successful than nature's trial and error system for getting rid of excess water with a maximum of speed and a minimum of damage. There's still too much trial and error in the natural system; flood control hasn't much more than made a reasonable start toward matching municipal drainage systems. Perhaps it's because man is too small to understand nature in the mass.

The best he can do is build scale models to prove what would happen if he could compress nature in a laboratory, which is the relative size of a city drainage system when matched with the streams and slopes of a watershed. Lacking a complete grasp of the matter, man must trust to luck and frost, meanwhile watching for news that the runoff he watches today is contributing to a flood somewhere between him and the ocean tomorrow.

THE LAW'S LONG ARM

Oklahoma's prison system will have to make the most of Carlton B. Chilton's escape in 1913, says Gov. Bricker in effect by continuing his predecessor's refusal to give up the Ohioan. There is nothing to be gained by sending a man who has proved he is not an habitual criminal by a quarter of a century of straight living back to prison. The law's long arm should be controlled by intelligence.

The governor's decision is popular—popular because public opinion finds it much easier to temper justice with mercy than the letter of the law allows. Under the law, of course, Chilton must finish his sentence, unless pardoned, before he can possess a clear record. But the law sometimes is too inflexible for its own good. This is such a case.

As Gov. Bricker suggests, an outright pardon would do more to improve the spirit and morale of penal institutions in this instance than persecution. If the purpose of prisons is to rehabilitate as well as to incarcerate, then the case should be closed.

NOT TOO REASSURING

Pending approval of an amendment by the house, the Jenkins bill directing the social security board to pay Ohio old age pension money withheld since October, 1938, now seems assured of final passage. The senate passed it unanimously on Thursday. The bill is understood to have approval of the social security board.

Reversal of the board's decision is not too reassuring. If the board was right in 1938 when it charged the Davey administration with improper use of the state pension division, it is still right in 1940. If it was wrong, a great many Ohioans who agreed with it in 1938, are going to wonder why both the board and themselves were deceived.

Either way, it seems to add up to political horseplay.

BIG BROTHER ACT

High point of the big red's fight to the Finnish is the reported loudspeaker barrage being laid down on the Mannerheim line—"Give up, or we're going to send for the Germans."

Finnish have deep respect for Germans. They should; they've learned about fighting from them. So if the Germans are willing to be sent for by the reds, it's serious.

But if it's just an idle boast, like finishing the war in a week, more than a month ago, the Russians had better be careful. It's sure death to threaten to bring big brother to the rescue if he doesn't come.

Next thing the Russians know they may be defending Leningrad instead of attacking Helsinki.

R. C. Votaw, who has been employed at the Salem steam laundry on Ellsworth st., has resigned his position to accept one with the Pennsylvania Co. He will be fireman on a through freight running between Pittsburgh and Crestline. He went to Pittsburgh Saturday night and made his first run this morning.

The automobile police patrol wagon built by the city of Akron is said by the technical journals to be the first of its kind in the world. Many requests for information as to its practical success have been received from other cities. The wagon weighs 5,500 pounds, cost $2,200 and has a speed of from six to twenty miles an hour. City officials figure that it will pay for itself in three years by the saving on feed bills and other expense required by the old patrol wagon teams.

Can you tell me if there is a test which one can take which would prove that a lump is or is not cancer?"

Answer—Early cancer of the breast is usually painless and gentle pressure does not elicit tenderness. Of course, late cancer is painful. The only positive test which will decide whether a lump in the breast is cancer or not is to remove a small piece by surgical operation, and submit it to microscopic examination. This is called biopsy. There is no blood test. X-ray examination of the breast is becoming more and more efficient in making a positive determination.

LOVE'S INTERLUDE by MAY-CHRISTIE

CHAPTER XXX

Back in New York. A spell of late winter weather. Positively glacial in its cold.

Walking was treacherous on the city sidewalks. Many casualties not only from pneumonia, but from broken limbs and cellar-bones.

Dirty snow piled everywhere. Neither street-cleaners nor fire department could cope with it all.

And to top the general discomfort, a freezing wind blew constantly, penetrating one's marrow. With icy conditions about, one couldn't walk fast enough to keep warm.

Because of the exodus, therefore, to Florida, to sunny California, to Miami, to Deverney's beauty shop, to the city.

Cora, proprietrix, never an agreeable person to work for, at best, became vixenish. Money was her god.

Next to money, her philandering husband, Joe—though in the opinion of those who knew her, it was more jealousy than love.

Life was no bed of roses for Cora at least where her job was concerned. The ax hung daily lower over her head.

A week passed, following that flying visit to Boston. No word from Kim Delatour. Should she call him at one of his clubs?

She had given it to him on the train. She had been tempted to confide in Evelyn. But Evelyn had no sense of what was fitting. Already she had tried to engineer another four-some—herself, Joe, Moira, Randall Carlton.

She'd attempt the same thing with Kim Delatour. Ruin what might prove to be a charming friendship. For oil and water never did mix.

Said Evelyn: "What's the use of going girls like you and me trying to compete with the rich Park Avenue crowd? Wake up, Moira, and be realistic! Let's take what fun comes our way."

Evelyn and Moira happened to be chatting, alone, early one afternoon at the shop's appointment desk.

The telephone rang. Evelyn picked up the receiver in Cora's absence.

"Who? What? Miss Carewe?" She swung around.

"For you Moira. A man wants you. Thank your lucky stars Cora isn't around!"

For it was a rule as rigid as that of the Medes and Persians that the operators could receive no personal calls.

Moira hastily grabbed the receiver.

Kim Delatour speaking. I've called you several times after six, as you told me, and got no reply. Such a popular girl!"

So he'd learned she worked in a beauty-parlor! Still wanted to see her! Flustered, she faltered: "How—how did you get this number?"

"Why, don't you remember I asked you for it? You gave it me on the train."

I came to her in a flash, then, that she had made a dreadful mistake. Giving him her business number instead of that of her apartment!

But there was still time to carry it off!

"I'm awfully sorry I can't talk now."

"I'll call you back, then, in the next hour."

Good grief! Act quickly! Seize the moment! Why, oh why, hadn't she been more open with him?

"I've nothing to do around six—"

"May I drop in at your flat?"

That wouldn't do at all. Not, anyway, for their first meeting in town!

The cleaning-woman hadn't shown up for four days. And knowing the building was to be demolished shortly, the janitor was growing restless, bristling at the condition of the place.

In her dilemma, Moira fidgeted recklessly. "I've a date with friends in their apartment in the Savoy Plaza at four.... will be through at six.... can meet you in the lobby...."

The handsome hotel was within a block of the beauty-parlor. Easy to slip in by a side entrance. They could have their talk in the cafe-lobby.

He seemed to hesitate. She saw Cora approach. Oh, hurry, man, hurry!

He said: Let's make it six-fifteen. I've a bridge game from three on.

Cora was right beside her, her eyes hostile, bright with suspicion. In her most business-like voice, Moira said, brightly and efficiently: "That will be perfectly all right, thank you." And hung up.

"Who were you talking to, Moira?"

A new customer. Wanted an appointment for tomorrow morning. At ten.

"I didn't see you look in the appointment book. What was her name?"

She faltered: "Mrs. Horace Zink. She asked for me specially. Said she'd heard I do good work."

"Used to, you mean," corrected Cora. Her nostrils dilated as she added: "She probably hasn't heard what you did to Mrs. Rules."

For the injured customer still was in the hospital, having special treatment. After-care for her burns, though she was perfectly able to leave.

"It's my belief she'll have one of those big plastic operations. Skin-grafting to the face. Heaven knows what'll run into the properties, snapped, for they were alone."

Moira thought: "Cat! But I must do something to placate her...."

An idea had been turning in her mind. Despite the exodus to Florida and warmer climates, New York had plenty of money.... women from "the sticks" away from their husbands.... widows wanting to marry.... divorcees seeking thrills.... Why, the nightclubs were doing roaring business!

She thought up an idea that might make lots of money for you, Mrs. Deverney. It would need a small outlay in advertising, but we could put it over with the columnist and the press. I am sure we'd make a big play for the older woman visiting New York for the first time. The woman with money to burn. She wants to be attractive, not only in beauty, but in manner, carriage, attitude. But no one's ever told her her personal liabilities. No one's ever taught her the gestures of appeal that go to make up the charming woman, see? I'd like to start 'classes for allure' right here in the shop," said Moira.

"Have you gone out of your mind?"

"Never was saner! Don't you realize that boy who opened the 'escort service' for solitary, moneyed women has made a fortune almost overnight? And this is along the same line! If she's willing to pay for a handsome escort, she's willing to pay for preliminary instruction in appeal, in poise, manner, the way of entering a nightclub, seating herself at table, conversation, general impression. And naturally we'd tie up my classes with beauty treatment—proper make-up and the like. It would work two ways. It would be a cinch!"

Cora looked thoughtful. Some of the antagonism faded from her sharp small eyes.

"You mean you'd teach 'em how to land a man? Sex appeal, and the like? That's it?"

"Well.... something of the kind. I've read lots of books on personality and charm...."

"And tried it on the men, I'll bet!" But Cora, scenting money, was actually smiling now.

Moira immediately got down to hard tacks.

"Classes three times weekly, an hour at a time. Six lectures for twenty-five dollars for each woman. I'd expect a dozen in a class. I'd give it in the stockroom."

"At that rate, and with that number, you'd be bringing one hundred and fifty dollars a week in here!"

"Oh, much more! For each of them, after the lesson, would be a hair-do—a new hair-do—I'd advise an original one for each type of face—and you could charge for special makeup, as well. Most of them would need a facial. For we'll make a bid for the older woman, and the night life, to which she's unaccustomed up to now, does take its toll!"

With an attempt at graciousness, Cora admitted Moira had the germ of an idea worth tackling.

"I'd want fifty-fifty on the classes, and a percentage on beauty treatments taken by my pupils. That's only fair. For it's taken me years at college and at nights to learn the things I'll teach them. I studied psychology. Each woman will have individual attention. It will take plenty of time."

"Telling them their faults? Their liabilities? It sure will!"

"I'll give each student a pencil and a pad. On each pad I'll have lined up a voting list.... walk.... style.... hair.... facial expression.... makeup.... shoes.... stockings.... hat.... gloves.... poise.... general impression. These pads will be numbered. My private book will have a name opposite each number. Each student is to walk up in front of the class, and the others will then vote on her attractiveness, and also offer criticism. In that way they would each learn what they most want to know—the impression they are making on others. And correct their mistakes."

"It's a swell idea, Moira! I always knew you had it in you." Cora told her unexpectedly. "It won't be the stockroom for long! We'll have to have to hire a big hall for the pupils!"

Kim Delatour, tall and elegant and faultlessly groomed, was waiting for her in the lobby of the Savoy Plaza. He seemed pleased to see her, but she was a little dashed that, in preference to the lounge bar, he wanted to take her to some place she'd never heard of.

"It's so crowded in this bar right now that we shouldn't be able to hear ourselves speak! The 'Cork and Corkscrew' is a cute little spot just opened on West 52nd, and at the cocktail hour they have no singers, no entertainers."

They went there.

Presently, in her exhilarating talk with Kim, the heartening effect of his admiration, she forgot that she'd wondered if he didn't want to be seen with her in a place where his own friends were liable to drop in.

Later, she knew she was mistaken, for at a hint to Kim, on their third date he took her gladly, to the Savoy Plaza lounge bar.

Moira told herself it was idiotic to have this feeling of inferiority. How absurd when she was about to start her classes for teaching women self-assurance! Cora Deverney's advertisements already had brought enrollments.

She corrected the blunder of the telephone number. For fear he might repeat the mistake, she told him that it was a club—a woman's club—from which she had now resigned.

She gave him her home number. But she worried about the beauty shop number, for fear he might forget, and call her there again.

On their second meeting—they were dining in the brown-stone mansion with its iron grille and gateway known as "36"—she laughingly asked him to return the card with the original phone number she had given him on the train. "I want it as a reminder of my own absent-mindedness."

"Funny thing," said Kim, "that right after I'd called you, I lost it. Guess I'm a bit careless."

Her mind was relieved.

It was lovely in "36," the celebrity hide-away. The maitre-d'hotel, Philip, and his captains, treated Kim with deference. It wasn't only that he spent freely. That wasn't enough to rate one of the best tables, immediate service. One had to be a person of importance.

In these biting wintry days they often lunched there.

For it was only round the corner and a block or two up the Avenue to the beauty shop. Moira had told the proprietrix that, because of the classes in chic and charm—she must frequent the smart luncheon places.

If she didn't get back to the shop till half past two, nothing was said. She was a privileged operator.

For sixteen women had enrolled for the first course. Four hundred dollars paid in advance, into the cash register!

The first lecture—a talk on charm and poise—had been successful. Cora paid Moira $33.50 at the end of the class. Her share.

Moira was disappointed that she hadn't got the lump sum of two hundred dollars, which was owing, since enrollment. They had a fifty-fifty agreement. But not on paper.

Knowing that Cora was mean, she must get it on paper. A contract. Properly signed.

"You'll have to bear half of the advertising," Cora told her.

Best not argue about that yet. (To be continued)

"Classes three times weekly, an hour at a time. Six lectures for twenty-five dollars for each woman. I'd expect a dozen in a class. I'd give it in the stockroom."

"At that rate, and with that number, you'd be bringing one hundred and fifty dollars a week in here!"

"Oh, much more! For each of them, after the lesson, would be free to want a hair-do—a new hair-do—I'd advise an original one for each type of face—and you could charge for special makeup, as well. Most of them would need a facial. For we'll make a bid for the older woman, and the night life, to which she's unaccustomed up to now, does take its toll!"

With an attempt at graciousness, Cora admitted Moira had the germ of an idea worth tackling.

"I'd want fifty-fifty on the classes, and a percentage on beauty treatments taken by my pupils. That's only fair. For it's taken me years at college and at nights to learn the things I'll teach them. I studied psychology. Each woman will have individual attention. It will take plenty of tact."

"Telling them their faults? Their liabilities? It sure will!"

"I'll give each student a pencil and a pad. On each pad I'll have lined up a voting list.... walk.... style.... hair.... facial expression.... makeup.... shoes.... stockings.... hat.... gloves.... poise.... general impression. These pads will be numbered. My private book will have a name opposite each number. Each student is to walk up in front of the class, and the others will then vote on her attractiveness, and also offer criticism. In that way they would each learn what they most want to know—the impression they are making on others. And correct their mistakes."

S.S.S. Tonic is the choice to increase the appetite...to boost energy COUNTLESS thousands of men and women can testify to the benefits S.S.S. Tonic has brought them.

The facts are simple because of all conditions affecting the human body a low blood count is most deceptive. If you feel rundown... lack a keen appetite... have lost weight... don't give up until you restore those precious red blood cells back to normal.

S.S.S. Tonic may be just what you need to get you on the right road to health and happiness again.

In S.S.S. Tonic you go after the trouble in two ways... first you increase the appetite and better your stomach digestion—thus making better use of the food you eat—secondly, thin, weak, watery blood is made rich and red again thus giving you a boost in energy.

Try S.S.S. which any drug store can supply and no ethical dealer will suggest a substitute. The big 20 oz. size is a two week's treatment and represents a saving in the purchase price S.S.S. Co.

Trooper Is Freed In Death of Girl In Pennsylvania

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., Jan. 15.—Corporal Benjamin Franklin found the body of the 14-year-old Joan Stevens, in his acquittal on murder and manslaughter charges resulting from her death.

The handsome, 30-year-old suspended state trooper beamed and said he felt "good" when a jury of nine men and three women announced its verdict late yesterday.

From Mrs. Mayme Stevens, the slain girl's mother, came the comment: "I lost heavily. The commonwealth can now go out and kill other children."

Franklin's future remained unchanged. Suspended since the shooting occurred, he still must face a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

Pleading self defense, Franklin said that he shot the girl because she suddenly drew what appeared to be a gun and threatened to "blow your brains out" as he and Private Edward Swatji questioned her about a bank robbery plot.

EXTRA MILDNESS

EXTRA COOLNESS

EXTRA FLAVOR

MY JOB IS SPEED— BUT MY SMOKE IS SLOW-BURNING CAMELS

THE CENTURY READY TO "HIGHBALL," as they say in railroading! Engineer Walter L. Bronson (above) swings up into the cab of Number 5449, one of the big Hudson type locomotives which flash at 80 miles an hour across the landscape between New York and Chicago in a day-in, day-out epic of modern railroad speed.

HERE'S EXTRA MILDNESS, EXTRA COOLNESS, AND EXTRA FLAVOR, and here's why: Camels are slower-burning. They have thoroughbred quality through and through. Finer, more expensive tobaccos are used, in the first place. And these choice tobaccos are combined into a matchless blend.

Smoke a Camel. Notice how slowly it burns. That is your clue to true cigarette enjoyment—the "extras" of mildness, coolness, flavor—and—extra smoking in every cigarette. Camels burned 25% slower than any other cigarette in recent tests (full details below). You'll always rejoice over the day you switched to Camels!

Smokers: SAVE THE COST OF THE STATE CIGARETTE TAX

Smokers who live in communities where certain state cigarette taxes are in effect can save the cost of the tax—and, in some instances, more—through smoking Camels. (See right.) When you are a Camel smoker, you get this unique economy—and all the extra enjoyment of cooler, milder smoking—the fragrance and delicate taste of finer, more costly tobaccos.

FAST BURNING—creates hot flat taste in smoke... ruins delicate flavor, aroma...

SLOW BURNING—protects natural qualities that mean mildness, thrilling taste, fragrance... a cooler smoke...

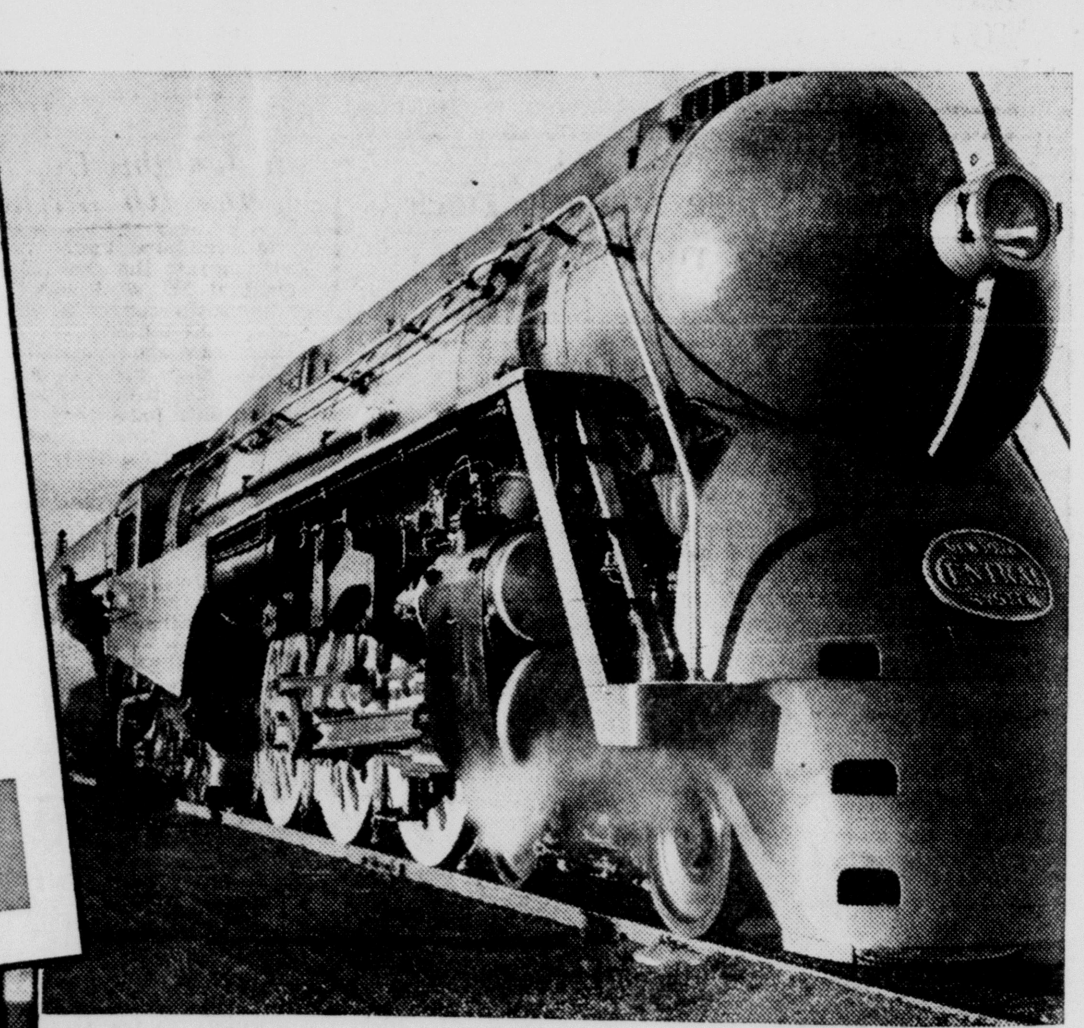

TAKING IT EASY, Engineer Bronson says: "No speed for me in my cigarette. That slower-burning feature makes sense to me. I've been a Camel smoker for years. I know Camels are milder and always taste swell. And I don't object a bit to getting those extra smokes per pack."

Trooper Is Freed In Death of Girl In Pennsylvania

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., Jan. 15.—Corporal Benjamin Franklin found vindication today for the fatal shots he fired into the body of 14-year-old Joan Stevens, in his acquittal on murder and manslaughter charges resulting from her death.

The handsome, 30-year-old suspended state trooper beamed and said he felt "good" when a jury of nine men and three women announced its verdict late yesterday.

From Mrs. Mayme Stevens, the slain girl's mother, came the comment: "I lost heavily. The Commonwealth can now go out and kill other children."

Franklin's future remained unchanged. Suspended since the shooting occurred, he still must face a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

Pleading self defense, Franklin said that he shot the girl because she suddenly drew what appeared to be a gun and threatened to "blow your brains out" as he and Private Edward Swatji questioned her about a bank robbery plot.

DeSoto Products Must Meet Engineers' Specifications On Every Point

SEEK ACCURACY IN EVERY ITEM

Inspectors Keep Constant Watch On Materials Used In Cars

Check and double-check, the phrase made famous by Amos 'n' Andy, is the daily creed of a small army of keen-eyed experts in the automobile manufacturing world who have the important assignment of seeing that several million automobiles a year go out to purchasers exactly as specified by designers and engineers. No where is this stressed more than by DeSoto, it is pointed out by the Harris garage, local DeSoto dealer.

The First Point
First point of inspection is usually the factory layout room. Here is where vendors' samples are checked against engineering blue prints for conformity to dimensions and general specifications.

At the DeSoto division of Chrysler Corp., for instance, measurements to one ten-thousandth of an inch can be made with the various gauges at hand in the layout room, and any variation in submitted samples must be corrected before the check and double-check boys will give the purchasing department the "go" signal for placing quantity orders.

After samples have been approved, and shipments by the carload begin to arrive, the inspection department swings into the job of

Sings In Salem

The beautiful and talented Marie Rem will be heard with the Continental Four, a high-class musical organization, beginning an engagement this evening at the Metzger hotel's Silver Cocktail room.

Miss Rem has appeared in many leading entertainment spots and right now is heard daily over radio station WFMJ in Youngstown, at 12:45 p. m.

The quality of her voice and her extremely pleasing personality have made her a favorite wherever she has appeared.

seeing that there is no deviation from the approved quality of the samples.

Even such relatively "staple" items as nuts and bolts will not be released into the production lines without an o. k. from the inspection department on each shipment received, and where a part is highly important to the proper operation and service of an automobile, a 100 per cent check may be specified.

Among the items given 100 per cent inspection by DeSoto are speedometers and propeller shafts.

High Degree of Accuracy
Speedometers, for instance, must be accurate within one mile per hour up to a speed of 60 m. p. h. Propeller shafts must show no whip or vibration at speeds up to 3,000 r. p. m.

Having checked sample items, and double-checked quantity shipments, the inspectors next turn their attention to the production lines. And here again they are not satisfied with a "once over" but have their work so systematized that each important job is cross checked at least twice.

FORD PRODUCTS SET NEW MARKS

Capture Two Firsts and a Second In Economy Competition

Outstanding official records for fuel economy were scored by Ford, Mercury and Lincoln-Zephyr cars in capturing two firsts and one second place in the 1940 running of the annual Gilmore-Yosemite economy run Jan. 4, the contest committee today informed E. L. Grate, local Ford dealer. The records were made the more remarkable by the fact the 306.5-mile run, which leads from near sea level to an altitude of more than 6,000 feet, was made in severe rain and sleet storms.

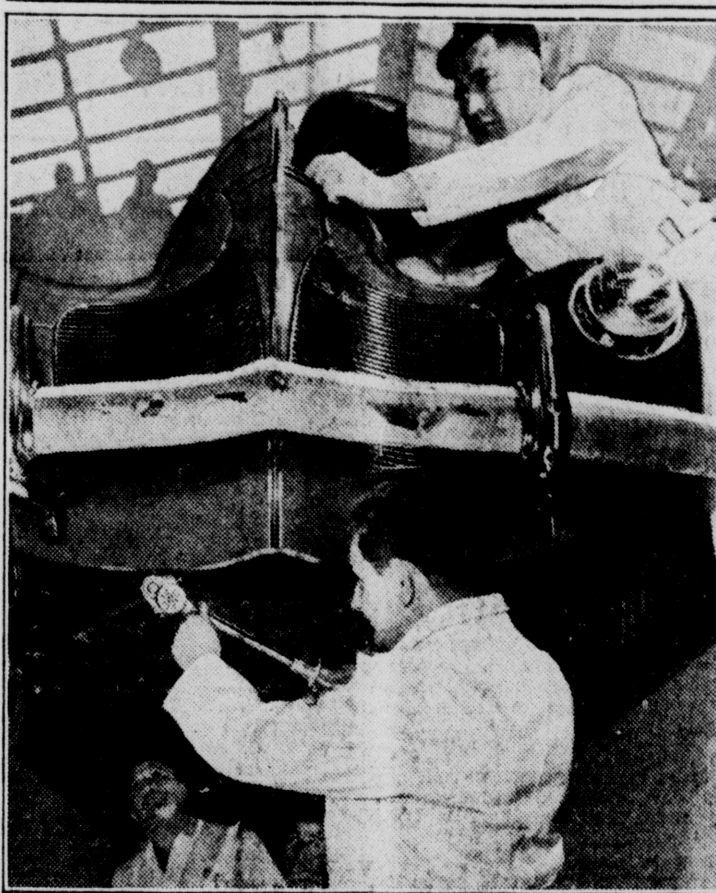

Lincoln-Zephyr Wins
The Lincoln-Zephyr V-12 captured top honors in class H for the third straight year when a stock model sedan averaged 19.90 miles per gallon over the difficult route. Official American Automobile Association tabulations showed that the Lincoln-Zephyr made 49,329 ton miles per gallon. The car obtained greater actual mileage per gallon than several cars in lower price brackets, as well as making a better showing than a 1939 model of the same make scored in winning its class in the same contest a year ago.

A 1940 Mercury 8 won in class D with a mark of 23.76 actual miles per gallon over the rainswept course. The Mercury, a stock sedan carrying a driver and four passengers, outclassed most of the 28 entries in the run by making a ton-mile average of 59,822, the official AAA contest figures show.

Ford Surprises Rivals
An 85-horsepower Ford deluxe V-8 far surpassed the two other volume production cars in its price class, and turned in a record of 24.92 actual miles per gallon and 51,420 ton miles per gallon. This was the highest mileage made in that class by any car not equipped with an overdrive.

The Ford was a stock model sedan, in competition with the winning car in class B which was equipped with overdrive and free wheeling. Rules of the contest forbade cars not having special equipment to coast down hills. Official results showed a second volume production car to be next behind the Ford with a mark of 22.87 miles per gallon and 48,022 ton miles per gallon, followed by a third volume production car with 22.54 actual miles and 45,164 ton miles per gallon.

Double Check at De Soto

Twice each day the accuracy of high-cycle tools in the De Soto factory is checked by inspectors with master torque wrenches. Here are pit inspectors re-checking the nut and bolt situation on the undercarriage of a new car proceeding up the final assembly line. It is estimated that, including the inspections given various parts by vendors who supply the factory, and the re-checking that is done during manufacture, each new De Soto has thousands of o. k.'s given it before shipment.

Griffith Reduces Expenses In State Secretary's Office

Secretary of State Earl Griffith announced today that he has turned over to the general revenue fund of the state, $164,652.06, in 1939, over and above all operating expenses of his department.

Griffith also revealed that he conducted his office during the year at a saving of $5,043 from the appropriation allotted to his department. All items incurred during the year have been paid or are in the process of payment.

In the original appropriation to his office last year, Griffith took the biggest proportionate cut of any state department, yet was able to save 3.6 per cent from the operating expenses.

During the year 1938, under the previous administration, the department spent $107,371.83 compared to $98,507.40 for Griffith's first year in office, which included about $18,000 for sending out publicity pamphlets on the constitutional amendments and referendum votes on at the last general election in November, 1938.

MOTHER, SON, 16, DIE IN FLAMES

Unable To Escape As Home Near Youngstown Burns; Husband, Four Others Escape

YOUNGSTOWN, Jan. 15.—Mrs. Paul Beight, 34, and her son, Jack, 16, burned to death in their farm home near here yesterday as her husband and four other children escaped.

The blaze in the Beight farm home, seven miles southeast of Youngstown, broke out in the early morning hours Sunday and destroyed the house. It was attributed to an overheated stove.

The father and one daughter who went to the basement to get well water to fight the fire, were trapped by a blast of flame, but escaped by crawling through a window.

Beight said all had been able to flee the house unaided, but that they had been unable to rouse his wife or Jack. Both bodies were found together, indicating to firemen that perhaps the mother awoke and went to Jack's help.

WINTER BEAUTY PROVOKES DIRT

Paris Cleaners' Service More Essential Now Than Ever

Snow, icicles and other appurtenances of the season have a certain quality of beauty. But to every advantage there is usually a disadvantage.

And in the case of the snow and ice season, there is also the "furnace season." In weather of the type prevalent during the last few weeks, a good warm furnace is necessary to comfort. That means "sooty" ashes and dirt.

What becomes of all the dirt you see pouring out of chimneys on a day like, for instance, today? Housewives will say that most of it is brought home on hands and face of their children. And if that's true, clothing undoubtedly is affected likewise.

Clothing suffers doubly during this weather—natural perspiration from the body and the dirt-laden air outside. Because of the heavier materials of garments generally, dirt is not so apparent now, but it is there, in copious quantities.

For that reason, the expert service of the Paris Cleaners is more essential than ever. The Paris knows fabrics and how to clean them. Send your clothing to this local plant frequently. They will be kept constantly fresh and they'll last longer.

Report On Grange

Reports of the state grange convention in Columbus were heard when Butler Grange held its regular meeting Thursday night. Mrs. Russell Whinnery told of a tea which she attended in the governor's mansion for the women who attended the state grange session.

Roll call at the meeting was by "resolution which I would like to keep." Mrs. Lowell Whinnery gave a reading, "Who Killed the Grange?" Friday night the Butler grange installation team inducted Mile Branch grange officers.

McLAUGHLIN'S LONG SHOT WINS FOR QUAKERS

SALEM CAGERS TOP RAYEN IN FINAL MINUTE

Quakers Gain Third Victory By Nosing Out Youngstown Team

The accuracy of Guard Glenn (Dinty) McLaughlin on long range shots can be thanked today for Salem High school's third victory of the 1939-40 basketball season.

McLaughlin, the key-man in the Salem offense, connected on a shot from deep in back court in the last 20 seconds of play to give the Quakers a 29-28 victory over Youngstown Rayen last Saturday night.

The veteran guard, who becomes ineligible for further scholastic competition Feb. 11 when he will be 20-years old, fired the ball three-quarters of the length of the floor. It was a well-directed shot, bounding hard against the bankboard and dropping through the hoop without touching the rim.

Hard Defeat To Take

The defeat was a near-breaker for Coach Joe Horn's Rayen passers, who, after having held the lead from mid-way in the third quarter, appeared to have victory in their grasp. It was Rayen's second set-back in five games.

Except for the exciting finish, the game was listless and marred by poor ball-handling and frequent wild passing by both teams.

The Quakers played on even terms with their Youngstown rivals in the first and second quarters, but fell behind in the third period and remained on the short end of the score until McLaughlin's winning shot in the dying seconds of the game.

Coach Herb Brown started a team of reserves, including three players who had never before drawn starting assignments. The second stringers held Rayen even, leaving the game late in the first quarter when the score was tied at 5-5. The count was deadlocked at 7-7 all the close of the first frame.

A low-scoring second quarter saw the Quakers count three points to Rayen's two to gain a 10-9 lead which they held at halftime. Both teams missed numerous scoring chances in the second period.

Pace Quickens

The pace quickened early in the third quarter with the lead changing hands four times before Rayen forced out in front 19 to 14, midway in the period. The Youngstown team was still five points out in front when the third quarter ended with the count at 23 to 18.

The Quakers connected for a field goal at the start of the fourth frame to cut Rayen's advantage to three points, but the Youngstown team quickly regained a commanding lead by scoring a field goal and a foul shot.

Trailing by six points after the early fourth-quarter scoring, the Quakers slowly whittled down Rayen's advantage until they were only one point behind near the end of the game. It was at this point, with the clock ticking away the last few seconds of the game, that McLaughlin got possession of the ball in the back court, dribbled into the clear and fired the long shot that won the game.

Sharing honors with McLaughlin in the last-quarter spurt which brought the Quakers from behind was Center Les Knepp, who dropped three field goals and a pair of free-throws through the hoop in the final period. Knepp led the Quakers' scoring with 12 points.

Four players collected all of Rayen's points with Forward Finamore and Center Floyd leading the Youngstown scoring with nine points apiece.

The Rayen reserves drubbed the Salem subs, 40 to 26, in the preliminary game.

The Quakers will invade East Palestine Friday night and meet Youngstown South at home Saturday night in games this week.

SCHOOL LEADER OPPOSES SHORT SPORT PROGRAM

Toledo Board Member Is Against Curtailing Schedules

By FRITZ HOWELL.
COLUMBUS, Jan. 15.—Grant Murray, vice president of Toledo's board of education, launched an attack today on the Ohio High School Athletic association's plan to curtail football and basketball schedules and to eliminate late-season gridiron "bowl" games.

Murray also advocated taking over of the parent body by the state department of education, or the formation of a new association by schools in the larger cities and those having well-rounded athletic programs.

"All large schools," Murray declared, "are constantly bothered by rules set up by small town principals who compose the Ohio state board."

Assume Obligations
"Many of the larger schools," he said, "have assumed obligations . . . the building of stadiums, baseball diamonds, running tracks, tennis courts, etc., in the expectation of paying off this indebtedness through their only available means, revenue from football."

"Should they now be forced to curtail their football schedules below the 10 games many of them play, the resulting decrease in income in many cases, would make it impossible for them to meet payments on their bonded indebtedness and to support such non-paying sports as tennis, golf, swimming, basketball and track. The debt payments must be met, so the non-paying sports would suffer or be eliminated."

"Why should the board cut out post-season football games, and still allow the state basketball tournament at Columbus?" he asked.

Murray also objected to the fact that smaller football-playing institutions, many of which he said had little chance to be invited to "bowl" games, would be permitted to vote on a referendum to ban the post-season events.

He said that the board should consider a referendum to ban the post-season events.

LEAD CHANGES IN CAGE LOOP

Emmanuel Lutherans Take Over First Place In Church League

The leading position in the church basketball league changed hands last Saturday as the Emmanuel Lutherans moved into first place while the Trinity Lutherans, former leaders, were suffering their first defeat of the season.

The Emmanuel took over the top spot on the strength of a 27-10 victory over St. Paul. It was the Emmanuel's fourth win in six games.

The Presbyterians handed the Trinity Lutherans their first setback in five games, 22-21. Paxton counted nine points to lead the Presbyterians, while Capel paced the losers with 11.

George Baillie sparked the Baptists to a 28-21 victory over the Episcopalians by scoring 17 points.

The Friends wound up on the long end of a 43-32 count against the Nazarenes with Robbins and Antonio scoring 13 and 12 points respectively.

The Christians won their first game of the season by defeating the Zion 26-18.

The Emmanuel dropped with B. Theiss and Schmidt each collecting seven points.

McLAUGHLIN'S LONG SHOT WINS FOR QUAKERS

SALEM CAGERS TOP RAYEN IN FINAL MINUTE

Quakers Gain Third Victory By Nosing Out Youngstown Team

The accuracy of Guard Glenn (Dinty) McLaughlin on long range shots can be thanked today for Salem High school's third victory of the 1939-40 basketball season.

McLaughlin, the key-man in the Salem offense, connected on a shot from deep in back court in the last 20 seconds of play to give the Quakers a 29-to-28 victory over Youngstown Rayen last Saturday night.

The veteran guard, who becomes ineligible for further scholastic competition Feb. 11 when he will be 20 years old, fired the ball three-quarters of the length of the floor. It was a well-directed shot, bounding hard against the bankboard and dropping through the hoop without touching the rim.

Hard Defeat To Take
The defeat was a heart-breaker for Coach Joe Horn's Rayen passers, who, after having held the lead from mid-way in the third quarter, appeared to have victory in their grasp. It was Rayen's second set-back in five games.

Except for the exciting finish, the game was listless and marred by poor ball-handling and frequent wild passing by both teams.

The Quakers played on even terms with their Youngstown rivals in the first and second quarters, but fell behind in the third period and remained on the short end of the score until McLaughlin's winning shot in the dying seconds of the game.

Coach Herb Brown started a team of reserves, including three players who had never before drawn starting assignments. The second stringers held Rayen even, leaving the game late in the first quarter when the score was tied at 5-5. The count was deadlocked at 7-7 all the close of the first frame.

A low-scoring second quarter saw the Quakers count three points to Rayen's two to gain a 10-to-9 lead which they held at halftime. Both teams missed numerous scoring chances in the second period.

The pace quickened early in the third quarter with the lead changing hands four times before Rayen forged out in front, 19 to 14, midway in the period. The Youngstown team was still five points out in front when the third quarter ended with the count at 23 to 18.

The Quakers connected for a field goal at the start of the fourth frame to cut Rayen's advantage to three points, but the Youngstown team quickly regained a commanding lead by scoring a field goal and a foul shot.

Trailing by six points after the early fourth-quarter scoring, the Quakers slowly whittled down Rayen's advantage until they were only one point behind near the end of the game. It was at this point, with the clock ticking away the last few seconds of the game, that McLaughlin got possession of the ball in the back court, dribbled into the clear and fired the long shot that won the game.

Sharing honors with McLaughlin in the last-quarter spurt which brought the Quakers from behind was Center Les Knepp, who dropped three field goals and a pair of free throws through the hoop in the final period. Knepp led the Quakers' scoring with 12 points.

Four players collected all of Rayen's points with Forward Finamore and Center Fidler leading the Youngstown scoring with nine points apiece.

The Rayen reserves drubbed the Salem subs, 40 to 26, in the preliminary game.

The Quakers will invade East Palestine Friday night and meet Youngstown South at home Saturday night in games this week.

SCHOOL LEADER OPPOSES SHORT SPORT PROGRAM

Toledo Board Member Is Against Curtailing Schedules

By FRITZ HOWELL.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 15.—Grant Murray, vice president of Toledo's board of education, launched an attack today on the Ohio High School Athletic association's plan to curtail football and basketball schedules and to eliminate late-season gridiron "bowl" games.

Murray also advocated taking over of the parent body by the state department of education, or the formation of a new association by schools in the larger cities and those having well-rounded athletic programs.

"All large schools," Murray declared, "are constantly bothered by rules set up by small town principals who compose the Ohio state board."

"Many of the larger schools," he said, "have assumed obligations . . . the building of stadiums, baseball diamonds, running tracks, tennis courts, etc., . . . in the expectation of paying off this indebtedness through the only available means, revenue from football."

"Should they now be forced to curtail their football schedules below the 10 games many of them play, the resulting decrease in income, in many cases, would make it impossible for them to meet payments on their bonded indebtedness and to support such non-paying sports as tennis, golf, swimming, basketball and track."

"The debt payments must be met, so the non-paying sports would suffer or be eliminated."

"Why should the board cut out post-season football games, and still allow the state basketball tournament at Columbus?" he asked.

Murray also objected to the fact that smaller football-playing institutions, many of which he said had little chance to be invited to "bowl" games, would be permitted to vote on a referendum to ban the post-season events.

LEAD CHANGES IN CAGE LOOP

Emmanuel Lutherans Take Over First Place In Church League

The leading position in the Church basketball league changed hands last Saturday as the Emmanuel Lutherans moved into first place while the Trinity Lutherans, former leaders, were suffering their first defeat of the season.

The Emmanuel took over the top spot on the strength of a 27-to-0 victory over St. Paul. It was the Emmanuel's fifth win in six games.

The Presbyterians handed the Trinity Lutherans their first setback in five games, 22-21. Paxton counted nine points to lead the Presbyterians, while Capel paced the losers with 11.

George Baillie sparked the Baptists to a 28-21 victory over the Episcopalians by scoring 17 points.

The Friends wound up on the long end of a 43-32 count against the Nazarenes with Robbins and G. Antonio scoring 13 and 12 points respectively.

The Christians won their first game of the season by defeating the Zion 26-18.

The Emmanuel dropped with B. Theiss and Schmidt each collecting seven points.

Bombing of Finns Resumed by Soviet

HELSINKI, Jan. 15.—The Russian air force, attacking again after unleashing yesterday the worst aerial offensive of the Russian-Finnish war, resumed bombing raids on South Finland today.
Two air alarms were sounded in Helsinki shortly after noon. No damage was reported downtown.

but some bombs were reported to have fallen in the outskirts.
It was intensely cold and the Soviet planes flew extremely high.
As a result of yesterday's widespread attack, Finns feared that Russian strategy called for a powerful assault of behind-the-lines morale to break military resistance at the front.

Man, How Wonderful You Look!

Such a "dressed-up" look can come only from garments that have fresh texture and style-molded finish. New garments have that appearance because their "dressing" is alive and clean. . . . Miracle is the ONE cleaning and finishing process that keeps garments refreshed and new looking because it replaces that "natural" dressing after completely thorough cleaning.

Miraclecleaning is a Better Cleaning.

Steal Safe

TIFIN, Jan. 15.—Burglars didn't take any chances by lingering at Elbert R. Myers' bakery to crack his 300-pound safe. They lugged it with them. In it, Myers said today, were $20, records and accounts.
